

Overview of Static Code Analysis Hands-on lab

Static Code Analysis is an important step in creating python code that is compliant with the standards. This hands-on lab will show you how to install pylint and run Static Code Analysis on a python program. You will check the compliance score of that program and be able to fix common mistakes to improve the compliance score. As a refresher you can access the Python Style Guide in a new tab: